DISCLAIMER

The following materials and sample note templates for dyadic care services contained here are strictly for educational and training purposes and not for clinical, billing, or legal use.

The UCSF Center for Advancing Dyadic Care in Pediatrics (UCSF CADP) provides examples of dyadic care practices, including billing, documentation, and revenue generation models, that were derived from a sampling of clinics across California and the United States and reflecting current practices in those clinics. The UCSF CADP is not responsible for billing, documentation, service decisions, or other actions that any individual or organization takes as a result of reviewing these documents. These documents are provided "as is" without any warranties or guarantees of any kind, either express or implied. They should not be construed as legal, medical, or financial advice. The use of these documents does not constitute compliance with any legal, regulatory, or professional standards. Users are advised to seek independent legal review and consultation from qualified professionals.

Clinical workflows and billing practices (e.g. progress note templates) are subject to compliance regulations and should be reviewed and approved internally by corresponding clinic systems. UCSF does not assume responsibility for sites' compliance-related practices, nor does it assume liability for actions taken based on the information provided. The user of these materials is solely responsible for compliance with all local, state and federal rules, regulations or licensing requirements. In making any use of the templates provided in this document, each institution acknowledges that it is solely responsible for ensuring compliance with all applicable laws, regulations, and professional standards and it represents and warrants that its own templates have been developed following consultation and review by their own compliance team and other relevant oversight bodies.
